

Germans Defeated in Flanders With Heavy Losses---British Advance in Picardy

ENEMY ATTACK HALTED AFTER BITTER CHECK IN FLANDERS

 Alsace, German detachments were re-organized, leaving fifteen prisoners in our hands. The Germans obtained no results whatsoever.
 "There is nothing to report from the rest of the front."

SAMMIES AT TOUL UNDER HEAVY FIRE

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN LORRAINE, April 29--Recent renewed activity by the Germans in the Lorraine sector, northwest of Toul, is taken to mean that the boches are seeking to force a concentration on the American front there to hamper American participation in the big battles to the north.

The Germans began a violent bombardment of the American positions Sunday morning, evidently fearing an attack. The American artillery took up the challenge, and the duel continued for several hours, being particularly violent from 8 p. m. to midnight. All this time rifles and machine guns on both sides were busy.

Brothers in Arms--Washington Boys Who Will Fight Together

This is Fausto Petrone and Placido Petrone on their way to camp. Five warriors have gone from the Petrone family. Fausto and Placido are two brothers who will fight under Old Glory, while the other three are now with the Italian armies. Fausto Petrone and Placido Petrone formerly received their mail at 815 East Capitol street, but now it comes to Camp Meade, Md., where they were sent in the last quota of selectives from the District.

violence, the Germans have failed to advance their lines anywhere, and the losses that they suffered were called "very heavy" by Field Marshal Haig in his dispatches to the war office last night.

The German attacks were extended all the way to the positions held by the Belgian army--along a front of from fourteen to sixteen miles.

The assaults were preceded by an intense bombardment, which was especially severe between Meteren and Lillebeke lake.

(Meteren is in France, near Baillieu. Lillebeke lake lies due south of Ypres, in Belgium.)

Germans Hurled Back.
 The brunt of the German attacks fell upon the Twenty-fifth, Twenty-first, and Forty-ninth British divisions. The soldiers in these units, although hammered by violent shell fire and attacked by superior numbers, held their lines intact, hurling back the Germans as often as they attacked.

The Germans were trying to fling back the British flank from the hill positions southwest of Ypres, but their efforts all ended in failure, and when darkness brought an end to the fighting the field of combat was covered with German corpses and the German lines were just where they had been in the morning when the assaults began.

The comparative lull which continued upon the Picardy battle front (east of Amiens), but the shelling has been very heavy on both sides. Sharp local attacks were delivered on the southern flank of the German salient. The Germans tried to force their way over the Oise river, but were thrown back.

Counter Attacks Win.
 The Flanders front has been the vital field of action. On some parts of this front fighting has continued with the Germans thrusting against certain positions despite their repeated repulses. In the sector of Scherpenberg and Mont Roux (southwest of Ypres in Belgium) the Germans succeeded for a time in getting a footing in positions held by the French, but the defenders rallied and regained all their ground in strong counter blows.

The thrusts at the Belgian lines

When John W. Kern opened his mail one day, he found that the draft board had selected him for service. His brother, George H. Kern, received a similar notice. The same roof sheltered them at 1581 B street southeast, and they slept in the same barracks at Camp Meade.

What Happened to Pete.
 Perhaps this is due to the sad recollection of what happened to "Pete," the Roosevelt bulldog. "Pete" chased diplomat out of the front yard of the White House and received the primitive art of tree-climbing.

Indeed, in view of the Department of Agriculture's expressed apprehensions over the alleged antipathies that exist between that type of pet and sheep, the likelihood is that the guardians of the Presidential estate will find it their duty hereafter to keep a sharp lookout for dogs of all kinds, even into the dark hours that come after the full quota of daylight has been saved at the Executive Mansion. Otherwise there will be some sheep-leas nights at the White House.

QUOTES BIBLE TO INFORM WIFE OF ESCAPE IN WRECK

Rescued after the ship had been torpedoed by a submarine, the Rev. Philip H. Cook, rector of St. Michael and All Angels' Episcopal Church, Baltimore, quoted Scripture in a cablegram to inform his wife of his safe arrival. It was one of the most unique messages sent out describing the disaster to the steamship Orizaba, torpedoed and sunk Sunday.

The pastor's cable follows: "See Acts, chapter 7, verses 41 to 44."
 Mrs. Cook turned to the Bible and this is what she read:

"And falling into a place where two seas met, they ran the ship aground; and the forepart stuck fast, and remained unmovable, but the hinder part was broken with the violence of the waves, so that it began to sink. And the soldiers' counsel was to kill the prisoners, lest any of them should swim out, and escape."

"But the centurion, willing to save Paul, kept them from their purpose, and commanded that they which could swim should cast themselves first into the sea and get to land."

"And the rest some on boards, and some on broken pieces of the ship. And so it came to pass, that they escaped all safe to land."
